

Arabic Grammar
Sarim Aleem

1 Introduction

السلام عليكم

This is my guide to arabic grammar. I hope you find it useful.

2 Pronouns

In Arabic, we have Singular and Plural pronouns, the same applies to arabic

Table 1: Possessive conjugation

English	العربي
I	انا
you (masculine)	انتَ
you (feminine)	انتِ
he	هو
she	هي
we	نحن
they	هم

3 Possessive Conjugation

In English, we don't have conjugation for possessive pronouns. if we say the word house (بيت) out of context, it's not clear if it's my house, your house, their house, etc. Instead, we have to preface it with a pronoun (like my)

In Arabic, this isn't the case. A noun with the appropriate suffix can give information about the who possessed the noun:

Table 2: Possessive conjugation

English	العربي	Example	مثال	notes
my	ي	my house	بيتي
your (masculine)	ك	your house	بيتك	previous consonant should be prefaced with fatha
your (feminine)	كِ	your house	بيتكِ	previous consonant should be prefaced with kasra
his	ه	his house	بيته
her	ها	her house	بيتها
our	نا	our house	بيتنا
their	هم	their house house	بيتهم
